

City Skyline

Each night - when I head home it shivers me - down to my bones when I look at my city skyline ocean of light - with so many people much more - than you could imagine - to be in a single place

Which of these lights live happy - which live in anger you only can guess - you'll never know, just drive them by slowly

Which of these lights are crowded - which live in desperation you'll never know, just drive them by slowly

My beautiful city skyline so bitter and sweet

Beautiful city skyline
when I head home

When I head home the city skyline shivers me - down to my bones.

so pleasant and cold

People still working - paying with lifetime for stuff and for rent - to live in this town between all the buildings and streets you can see and feel forget who are - forget where we came from - it all drags us deep in the throat of the city follow the roads - that cut the colossus ride for a while - through the heart of the city

Blackland

endless lines of vehicles -
rotten dirty roof tops
people passing , empty eyes - in a land thats entirely black another no go sector - the city changed a lot assume I did change too - in a land thats entirely black stranger in my home streets - between some strangers sleeping here concrete isolation that feels so entirely black straying through my city - blinded by the flood of light eaten by the dirt on the pavement - that feels entirely black there are so many people - though it feels like a long lost place whoever owns these streets - should know it's entirely black

Sleepless

tired from the day
so many issues
but nothing got done

my mind keeps running on full speed ahead
the beat in my head
is ticking loud

push to the next scene
sleepless sleepless
push to the next day

echos of the day with shapes and impressions melt in a cloud

marching like an army nothing can stop them from starting again

push to the next live

She's wearing winter promised you - to be everyday fall again - and the doubts come in raised up together and grown old besides

time is an issue - were worlds apart promised you to be there all day lost in the sorrow and lopped in the pain

try .. exit repeat

She's wearing winter - architect of ties She's wearing winter - I ain't gonna lie She's wearing winter - the way down is so deep She's wearing winter - this is why i weep promised you to be everynight

stuck in progression and lost in transition

promised you to be there each year

She's wearing winter - Queen of Snow and Ice

God's mercy

I need a little bit of god's mercy It'd be that way Just like a baby

It was the day
What i see you through Can't you see that too

And all the lights
Ah, we could somehow Steer out through the trees

If she can now
Off go the lights
I want to fade away watch the bones from your lips

Last song

last song on earth
this will be the last you hear from me gone with the wind
not but an unrequited love

Forgiveness, not but a smile yet we sin
not but a prayer
not but a smile

darkness descends
I beg for forgiveness why did it come to this?
sordid, soulless , a child there is only sorrow
